In August 2024, a travel group called NomadMania visited Algeria for a special trip. The tour was organized with help from an Algerian tourist guide called Wassim Allache

First, the group arrived in Algiers, where they visited the impressive Great Mosque and the famous Martyrs' Memorial, discovering both modern and traditional sides of the city. Next, they travelled to the ancient Roman city of Tipaza by the sea, and after that, they crossed the mountains to reach Tiaret, the hometown of Emir Abdelkader. The weather in Tiaret was cold and rainy, which surprised many. Later, they went south into the Sahara Desert, arriving in Brezina, where they enjoyed stunning desert views and had a special meal with local music in El Bayadh. Then, they went east to the coast and saw Roman ruins in Tigzirt, and discovered the culture of Kabylie in the mountain village of Benni Yenni. Finally, the trip ended with visits to Annaba, the birthplace of Saint Augustine, and Tebessa, a town full of Roman history with an arch, basilica, theatre, and a museum inside an old cathedral.

The group was very happy. They saw how diverse and beautiful Algeria is – with deserts, mountains, sea, and friendly people. This trip showed that Algeria has a rich and long history.
