PartOne: Reading

Read the text carefully then do the activities.

In Africa, many young people spend years studying, and gaining skills and knowledge, with the hopes of securing employment after graduation. However, the sad reality is that most of them end up being jobless, with no prospects of finding a job. This unfortunate situation is mainly due to nepotism, which has become deeply entrenched in the hiring process in many African countries.

Nepotism is the practice of showing favoritism to one's family members or friends in matters of employment. It is prevalent in many African countries, where the job market is highly competitive, and the number of qualified candidates outweighs the available job opportunities. In such a situation, recruiters tend to favour their close associates, friends, and family members, even if these individuals lack the necessary skills and qualifications for the job. As a result, meritocracy is sacrificed, and deserving candidates, who may have studied hard and have excellent qualifications, are left on the sidelines. The common practice is that many recruiters prioritize the interest of a family member or friend over the interest of the organization they represent. Often, these favored candidates get the jobs without even going through a recruitment process.

The consequence of nepotism is dire, especially for young graduates who are optimistic about their prospects in the job market. Many young people spend years studying, incurring debts to pay their tuition fees and end up having no job to show for their hard work. The frustration of not finding a job leads to a loss of hope, and many talented individuals abandon their home countries for greener opportunities overseas.

Part One: Reading

Read the text carefully then do the following activities.

The careful studies made by astronomers reveal that the forces controlling the movement of the planets, stars and galaxies in the universe operate according to constant and extremely precise laws, set in place by a Supreme Designer with perfect wisdom and intention. If we take just the example of our planet, we will certainly notice that the whole organization on which it stands is made possible only because it is governed by rules of an exceptional accuracy. The distance separating Earth from the Sun and its inclined position, which both remain unchanged through time and space, are elements that are created so delicately that if any action comes to disturb them, it will bring a series of terrible catastrophes. For example, any small variation in these aspects will produce important changes in the atmospheric condition of Earth. Then, seasons will disappear, temperatures will reach high or low intolerable extremes and all the living species will die.

Also, the energy and the gravity that are needed for our planet to turn round itself and rotate at the same time around the sun without any interruption must be steady and obey the same pattern day after day. If any disorder happens to modify this system our world will get out of its orbit and will either crash on the surface of the sun or get hurled violently into the infinite space and get reduced into ashes. It is true with the other realities linked with our planet. If the amount of oxygen gets reduced and the quantity of rain falls declines during certain number of years or if we collide with some wandering objects from space like a comet or a meteor, no creature will be able to survive.

We may not know how long the precise organization that sustains and supports our world will last, but as long as the Divine will and plan continue to guide and protect us, every event will occur smoothly and life will continue to exist and prosper on our planet.
