Text:

With the rise of social media platforms like Instagram, TikTok, and YouTube, content creation has become a popular activity. Many users share ideas, art, and opinions every day. However, not all this content is original. In recent years, plagiarism on social media has become a serious concern. People copy texts, images, or videos and repost them without giving credit to the real creators.

Plagiarism in social media is not only unethical but also illegal. It can harm original creators who lose recognition for their work. Some people even gain followers or money by using stolen content. For example, an artist's drawing may be shared by another user who claims it as their own, leading to frustration and injustice.

Fortunately, awareness is growing. Many platforms have begun to take actions against plagiarised content. Users are also encouraged to report stolen posts. Educating young people about digital ethics is the key to stop plagiarism online.

Part Two: Written Expression (5 pts)

✍ Topic One: Cultural Sites in Algeria (80–120 words)

Title: Our Cultural Heritage, Our Pride

Algeria is rich in cultural heritage. Sites like the Casbah of Algiers, Timgad, and the Tipaza ruins reflect the history, values, and traditions of past generations. These monuments are not only beautiful, but they also serve as educational tools for young people. They help us understand our identity and appreciate our ancestors' achievements. In addition, these sites attract tourists, which boosts the local economy. Unfortunately, some people are not aware of their importance. We must preserve them by raising awareness, avoiding damage, and encouraging responsible tourism. Protecting our cultural sites means protecting our national pride.

✍ Topic Two: Exam Stress (80–100 words)

Title: Don't Let Stress Win

Many good students suffer from exam stress. They feel nervous, lose focus, and perform poorly, even if they studied well. This stress is often caused by fear of failure, family pressure, or lack of confidence. As a result, students may forget answers or feel discouraged. To deal with stress, students should prepare early, sleep well, and take breaks during study time. Practicing deep breathing and staying positive also helps. Remember, exams are important, but they are not the end of the world. Believe in yourself and do your best!
