The First Term English Language Exam

PART ONE: (14pts)

On June 26, 1945, representatives of 50 states signed the United Nations Charter in San Francisco. Since then, it is considered as the planet's most important organisation when wars and conflicts in many parts of the world have demonstrated that our planet has not become a more peaceful place.

Everything must be done to ensure that the United Nations can address the challenges of our time; the obligations of the Security Council, peace missions, and also finding solutions to global problems such as poverty, the population explosion, the destruction of the environment and the Human Rights situations in the world

Despite the problems the United Nations Organisation is facing, it makes a decisive contribution to improving the lives of people all over the world. The United Nations Development Programme (UNDP), for example, supports over 5000 agricultural, industrial, educational and environmental projects. Due to the efforts of the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund (UNICEF) and the World Health Organisation (WHO), 80% of the children in developing countries were vaccinated against diseases such as tuberculosis, diphtheria and tetanus. As a result of the Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organisation (UNESCO), over 60% of adults in poor countries are able to read and write and 80% of the children in these countries now go to school. To put an end to hunger in the world, the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organisation (FAO) has contributed initiatives such as the world food programme to raise people's nutritional and living standards.

Through the achievements and success of the different agencies around the world, a lot more is still to be done for the preservation of world peace and the improvement of people's life.
