Text:

Charity is benevolent actions of any sort of aids for the needy with no expectation of material reward. It is a humanitarian act. In Algeria, there are tens of charity associations, which help the poor people, the orphans, the elderly, the homeless, the disabled and the weak. It is very important to do charity works because it increases solidarity and love among the citizens.

Most of the young Algerian citizens practise at least a type of charity; some donate money, food and clothes to the associations whereas others prefer to help their relatives or neighbours as it is said, "Charity begins at home."

In fact, there are many charitable organizations which do volunteering charities in our society like "The Algerian Red Crescent", "Ness El Khir", "Kafil El Yateem" and "El yed fel El yed" which brought joy to the hearts of needy families through the way of donation. Other example of the youth charities is "The Algerian Muslim Scouts" which organizes a yearly "Table of Iftar" all around Algeria in the sacred month of "Ramadan".

However, to be charitable and be one of the white hands of donors, there are many other recommended activities such as: cleaning mosques and cemeteries, donating blood, visiting the sickened people in hospitals …etc

To conclude, charity plays an important role and has a great impact in community's life. It strengthens the ties and the social bonds between people, removes enmity and creates fellow feeling and brotherly affection. If all these are our top most priorities, we will promote human values, build national solidarity and make the world a better place.
